

 the body and from its social and historical manifestations. be able to analyse the social conditions of contextualization of the expressions of human behaviour, frameworking permanencies and changes - understand the human and social problems inherent to the human body a social phenomenon (birth, education, relationships, reproduction, marria ageing, maturity, disease and death). identify the social dimension of human behaviour, where the body is the confaction and thinking configurations. transfer/project that element of understanding into time and space. apply and develop critical thinking aiming to be able to recognise and def problems, to formulate adequate hypothesis, to make pertinent options, draw valid conclusions and to apply them. This course studies the human being beginning in the body, as a soo phenomenon, and, thus, as a structure of representations, revealing an inbicollection of behaviours. Everyday practices interlaced with the preservat of life are particularly analysed. The course takes into account ideas, imagi symbols, representations, norms and conduct, and how these develop/abandoned. Syllabus 	ID	3315
At the end of the course, students should: - be acquainted with the different expressions of human behaviour based the body and from its social and historical manifestations. - be able to analyse the social conditions of contextualization of the expressions of human behaviour, frameworking permanencies and changes - understand the human and social problems inherent to the human body a social phenomenon (birth, education, relationships, reproduction, marria ageing, maturity, disease and death). - identify the social dimension of human behaviour, where the body is the co of action and thinking configurations. - transfer/project that element of understanding into time and space. - apply and develop critical thinking aiming to be able to recognise and def problems, to formulate adequate hypothesis, to make pertinent options, draw valid conclusions and to apply them.This course studies the human being beginning in the body, as a soc phenomenon, and, thus, as a structure of representations, revealing an inb collection of behaviours. Everyday practices interlaced with the preservat of life are particularly analysed. The course takes into account ideas, imag symbols, representations, norms and conduct, and how these develop/a abandoned.SyllabusThe course is organized as follows: Block 1 - Introduction to the study of Anthropology and History of the Body Block 2 - Marcel Mauss' contribution: mainly with his work about the social study of Anthropology and History of the Body Block 2 - Marcel Mauss' contribution: mainly with his work about the social study of Anthropology and History of the Body Block 2 - Marcel Mauss' contribution: mainly with his work about the social study of Anthropology and History of the Body Block 2 - Marcel Mauss' contribution: mainly with his work about the social study of anthropology and History of the Body Block 2 - Marcel	Curricular Unit	Anthropology and History of the Body be acquainted with the different expressions of human behaviour based the body and from its social and historical manifestations. be able to analyse the social conditions of contextualization of the expressions of human behaviour, frameworking permanencies and changes - understand the human and social problems inherent to the human body a social phenomenon (birth, education, relationships, reproduction, marria ageing, maturity, disease and death). identify the social dimension of human behaviour, where the body is the cof action and thinking configurations. transfer/project that element of understanding into time and space. apply and develop critical thinking aiming to be able to recognise and def problems, to formulate adequate hypothesis, to make pertinent options, draw valid conclusions and to apply them. This course studies the human being beginning in the body, as a soor phenomenon, and, thus, as a structure of representations, revealing an inb collection of behaviours. Everyday practices interlaced with the preservat of life are particularly analysed. The course takes into account ideas, imag symbols, representations, norms and conduct, and how these develop/abandoned. Syllabus The course is organized as follows: Block 1 – Introduction to the study of Anthropology and History of the Body Block 2 – Marcel Mauss' contribution: mainly with his work about the study of anthropology and History of the Body Block 2 – Marcel Mauss' contribution: mainly with his work about the study of Anthropology and History of the Body Block 2 – Marcel Mauss' contribution: mainly with his work about the study of Anthropology and History of the Body Block 2 – Marcel Mauss' contribution: mainly with his work about the study of Anthropology and History of the Body Block 2 – Marcel Mauss' contribution: mainly with his work about the study of Anthropology and History of the Body Block 2 – Marcel Mauss' contribution: mainly with his wo	Regent	Maria Manuela Vasconcelos Hasse de Almeida e Silva phenomenon, and, thus, as a structure of representations, revealing an inbrocollection of behaviours. Everyday practices interlaced with the preservat of life are particularly analysed. The course takes into account ideas, imag symbols, representations, norms and conduct, and how these develop/a abandoned. Syllabus The course is organized as follows: Block 1 – Introduction to the study of Anthropology and History of the Body Block 2 – Marcel Mauss' contribution: mainly with his work about the study of the body block 2 – Marcel Mauss' contribution: mainly with his work about the study of the body block 2 – Marcel Mauss' contribution: mainly with his work about the study of the body block 2 – Marcel Mauss' contribution: mainly with his work about the study of the body block 2 – Marcel Mauss' contribution: mainly with his work about the study of the body block 2 – Marcel Mauss' contribution: mainly with his work about the study of the body block 2 – Marcel Mauss' contribution: mainly with his work about the study of the body block 2 – Marcel Mauss' contribution: mainly with his work about the study of the body block 2 – Marcel Mauss' contribution: mainly with his work about the study of the body block 2 – Marcel Mauss' contribution: mainly with his work about the study of the body block 2 – Marcel Mauss' contribution about the study of the body block 2 – Marcel Mauss' contribution about the study of the body block 2 – Marcel Mauss' contribution about the study of the body block 2 – Marcel Mauss' contribution about the study of the body block 2 – Marcel Mauss' contribution about the study of the body block 2 – Marcel Mauss' contribution about the study of the body block 2 – Marcel Mauss' contribution about the study of the body block 2 – Marcel Mauss' contribution about the study of the body block 2 – Marcel Mauss' contribution about the study of the body block 2 – Marcel Mauss' contribution about the study of the body block 2 – Marcel Mauss' contribution about the study of the body block	-	 be acquainted with the different expressions of human behaviour based on the body and from its social and historical manifestations. be able to analyse the social conditions of contextualization of those expressions of human behaviour, frameworking permanencies and changes. understand the human and social problems inherent to the human body as a social phenomenon (birth, education, relationships, reproduction, marriage, ageing, maturity, disease and death). identify the social dimension of human behaviour, where the body is the core of action and thinking configurations. transfer/project that element of understanding into time and space. apply and develop critical thinking aiming to be able to recognise and define problems, to formulate adequate hypothesis, to make pertinent options, to Techniques of the Body; Block 3 – Education of the body; Block 4 – Development of the body representations associated with medi conceptions of the body, nature, health and life.	Syllabus	The course is organized as follows: Block 1 - Introduction to the study of Anthropology and History of the Body; Block 2 - Marcel Mauss' contribution: mainly with his work about the Techniques of the Body; Block 3 - Education of the body; Block 4 - Development of the body representations associated with medical
Evaluation which students expose doubts and questions introduced by the text and authors related with the Program and the need to associate concept	Evaluation
Bibliography Ribliography CRESPO, Jorge - A História do Corpo. Lisboa. 1992. HASSE, Manuela - O Divertimento do Corpo. Corpo, Lazer e Desporto, transição do Século XIX para o Século XX, em Portugal. Lisboa. 1999. MAUSS, Marcel - Sociologie et Anthropologie. Paris. 1989.	Bibliography	HASSE, Manuela - O Divertimento do Corpo. Corpo, Lazer e Desporto, na transição do Século XIX para o Século XX, em Portugal. Lisboa. 1999.