ID	3569
Curricular Unit	Analysis of Healthcare Organizations
Regent	José Manuel Fragoso Alves Diniz
Learning Outcomes	Provide a comprehensive and integrated view of the functions of Health Administration in Portugal and reviewing its key concepts and methods. Develop a set of complex analytical skills that enable established relationship between the identified health needs and response options of providing organizes health care.
Syllabus	Provide a comprehensive and integrated view of the functions of Health Administration in Portugal and reviewing its key concepts and methods. Develop a set of complex analytical skills that enable established relationship between the identified health needs and response options of providing organizes health care.
Evaluation	The final assessment of the learning results from the evaluation obtained through a written work (individual) with the synthesis module.
Bibliography	ENGLAND, Roger, (2000) Contracting and performance management in the health sector: some pointers on how to do it. Institute for Health Sector Development. Escoval, A. (2004) Evolution of Public Health Administration: The Role of Contracts. Critical factors in the Portuguese context. Doctoral Thesis in Management. ISCTE. RAMOS, Victor (1999) Public Health and Health Care in Portugal. In Public Health Policies in the European Union. Walter Holland, Elias Mossialos, Paul Belcher, Bernard Merkel (Eds.) Ashgate Publishing Company, Brokfield, USA.